New councils in Brant and Brantford take their seats this week

County of Brant holds its inaugural meeting Monday at 6 p.m. in Cainsville. Brantford, Haldimand and Norfolk also swear in new mayors elected last month.

The County of Brant's new council will be sworn in on Monday, Nov. 16, at 6 p.m. at the TF Warren Group Cainsville Community Centre. The county posted the notice Friday. The meeting will be livestreamed at brant.ca/Live, and the agenda is at brant.ca/CouncilCalendar.

Jennifer Kyle, a Ward 1 councillor and a farmer, was elected mayor of Brant County with 62.2 per cent of the vote after David Bailey did not run again. In Brantford, Ward 4 Coun. Richard Carpenter, a councillor since 1994, was elected mayor with 45.1 per cent. Four of Brant County's 10 councillors will be new; Brantford elected seven new councillors, including Carpenter's replacement.

The same week, Haldimand County swears in Jake Vandendool and Norfolk County swears in Adam Veri. Across Ontario, almost half of incumbent heads of council were defeated last month, the Association of Municipalities of Ontario said.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL:

The Sabbath School of the Methodist Church will meet at 10 o'clock next Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Thomas are stopping for a time with their son at Cooley Pond.

Reserve Tuesday evening, December 2nd for the concert in Mt. Vernon school. A good programme will be given by good local talent. Admission 15 cents and 25 cents.

Mr. Leslie Metcalfe, boys' secretary of the Y.M.C.A., Brantford, left on Saturday to attend the international conference in Detroit.

A number of Scotland school friends of Eva Stickles gathered at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler on Monday evening to give her a pleasant surprise...

Don't forget the anniversary services to be held in the Methodist church, Burford, on Sunday next. Rev. A. D. Robb will preach at 11:00 and 7:00. The choir will render special music...

Autoists who crash and run away evidently, they'll thus be enabled to crash another day. Life's about the cheapest thing there is. Small fines do not correct evil. Maybe it would do some good to take away licenses of careless drivers.

Air postal service from Cathcart reveals a desperate slate of affairs in that busy town. At an hour when the streets were filled with workers coming out of the factories two citizens were engaged in a wordy battle which developed into something more serious as the crowd approached, and it looked for a time as if one of the combatants would peck'em all on the head and the short sightedness of the other combatant in not getting out of the way did not improve matters any, but peace was at last restored and things are proceeding as usual.

Readers of the Advance can help to make it more interesting to themselves and other people if they will send or bring in items, they think will be interesting to the public.

On Wednesday evening, while Mr. Fred Ludlow was coming home from Brantford, after dark, he heard a child crying on the roadside near the Goodfellow place. Upon making an investigation, he found a small boy near the river bank, considerably cut and bruised from numerous falls. He made an inquiry at all nearby houses but could not find out the child's name. After communicating with the Brantford Police, it was found out that the little one had strayed from Crompton's store and belonging to a resident of Paris, and was shortly afterwards returned to his parents.

The man who stops his paper because he becomes offended by some item that does not suit his fancy always imagines he is getting even with the publisher, but he is never missed. This only happens occasionally for there are only a few people in any community who imagine a paper should contain nothing but what they approve of.

YOUTHFUL HOLD-UPS:

A youthful hold-up stunt and robbery was pulled off in broad day light in the village last Saturday. It appears that a farmer, from near Harley, left his eight-year old son in charge of its grandparents, in the village, while the farmer and his good wife went to the city and during the day the lad exhibited some money the father had given him to spend for candy and two larger boys, the sons of well-known families in the village, promptly over-powered and robbed the little fellow of his spending money and while doing so, one held his hand over the little fellow's mouth, so he couldn't call help. We are sorry to own such boys as residents, but these are the facts as presented by a woman who saw the affair from her veranda. What will these boys to when they grow up?

SACRED CANTATA WAS WELL RENDERED:

On Sunday afternoon, the choir of the Scotland Congregational Church rendered the sacred cantata "The Pink Rose," most delightfully in the local church. The choir numbered about 28 voices, including many unusually good vocalists...

Nov. 10, about 9:20 p.m.: Brantford Police say they are investigating a residential robbery on Allenby Avenue near Superior Street. Police said several people were home and that no one was injured. A red SUV may have been involved. No arrests had been made when the Nov. 12 release was issued. Police called the incident targeted and asked anyone with doorbell, dash or security video to call 519-756-7050. File 26-46000.

Nov. 12, 3:40 a.m.: Paris Star Online reported that Brantford Fire responded to a townhouse at 273 Elgin St. and that one person was treated for smoke inhalation at Brantford General.

Nov. 5: Brantford Police said they arrested a 28-year-old Paris man and laid charges of assault, sexual assault and sexual interference in investigations they said involved teenage girls. Police said they released the accused's name because they believe there may be other victims, and asked anyone with information to call Det. Const. Benner at 519-756-7050, ext. 2327. Victim Services of Brant: 519-752-3140. The victims are not named here.

COUNTY OF BRANT — COMMUNITY NOT NAMED IN THE RELEASE

Nov. 5, about 10 p.m.: Brant County OPP say they charged a 34-year-old Brant County resident with assault — spousal, after a call to a county residence. The accused was released on an undertaking and is scheduled to appear in the Ontario Court of Justice in Brantford on Dec. 17. The charge is an allegation.

Oct. 31, about 2:30 a.m.: Brant County OPP say they charged a 42-year-old Brant resident with two counts of uttering threats to cause death or bodily harm, uttering threats to damage or injure an animal, and mischief, after a call to a county residence. A court date of Dec. 11 in Brantford was listed. The charges are allegations.

Nov. 2, about 3 p.m.: Brant County OPP say a traffic stop at Cockshutt Road and Oxbow Road led to theft-related charges against a 42-year-old Brantford man: possession of property obtained by crime over $5,000, operation of a vehicle while prohibited, and two counts of failing to comply with a probation order. The accused was held for a video bail appearance. The charges are allegations.

The Pickering construction-site collision, also from CBC News on Saturday, is on page 13. PIBO says the Impact Assessment Agency of Canada is accepting comments on the Pelee Island tower until Monday, with a decision expected by Jan. 19, 2027.

The records show $30,984,284.41 spent on the government’s affordability and Protect Ontario campaign, and $15 million approved for advertising for Ontario Corps, a volunteer network for emergencies such as wildfires and floods.

A spokesperson for the Ministry of Emergency Preparedness, Joseph D’Angelo, said in an emailed statement Friday that government advertising “remains an important tool to highlight some of the ways Ontario is building a more competitive, resilient and self-reliant economy,” and that the Ontario Corps ads helped increase volunteer sign-ups by over 200 per cent. CBC wrote that it has asked how the ministry attributed those sign-ups to the campaign.

The story notes that Doug Ford promised in the 2018 election to reverse loosened government-advertising rules and that no such changes have yet been put in place.

Atwood joins opposition to a 600-foot Pelee Island tower

Margaret Atwood has added her voice to opposition to a proposed 600-foot communications tower on Pelee Island. The Pelee Island Bird Observatory says the tower could endanger migratory birds because of its height, supporting wires and nighttime lighting. PIBO says its monitoring programs counted and banded more than 660,000 birds in 2024 and 2025, and that the proposed site overlaps federally mapped critical habitat for several species at risk, including the endangered Blue Racer snake. The site is one road over from the new Atwood-Gibson Bird Centre.

DRW, the company behind the tower, told CBC that protecting wildlife has been a priority, that it commissioned an independent environmental impact study, built in recommended mitigation measures, and consulted Birds Canada, PIBO and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. PIBO filed a request for a federal impact assessment on Oct. 6; it says the Impact Assessment Agency of Canada is accepting comments until Monday, with a decision expected by Jan. 19, 2027.

Two workers die after a vehicle leaves a Pickering mall parking lot and enters a construction site

Durham Regional Police said the cause of the Friday crash had not yet been determined. No suspects are named here.

Police say two workers have died after a collision Friday at a fenced construction site at The Shops at Pickering City Centre, near Kingston and Liverpool roads. Police were called at about 11 a.m. A 58-year-old man and a 21-year-old woman were struck by a vehicle that, police say, lost control in an adjacent parking lot. The man was pronounced dead at a local hospital and the woman died after being taken by Ornge air ambulance to a Toronto-area trauma centre.

Acting Sgt. Nicholas Gluckstein said the 75-year-old driver had been looking for a parking space and accelerated at “extreme” high speed. The driver had minor injuries, and police said the cause of the crash had not yet been determined.

Carney says Canada will only sign a U.S. trade deal that includes a viable auto sector

The prime minister was speaking Saturday in Manila, three months after Canada pulled out of talks.

> Ottawa will not accept a deal "that is not consistent with a viable Canadian auto sector."

> Mark Carney, quoted by The Canadian Press via CBC News, Nov. 14

Prime Minister Mark Carney said trade talks with the United States are making progress, but that Ottawa will not accept a deal "that is not consistent with a viable Canadian auto sector." He called autos both "one of the fundamental issues" and "one of the most challenging issues" in the negotiation.

Carney said he had "quite a long, substantive conversation" this week with U.S. President Donald Trump, with U.S. Trade Representative Jamieson Greer and White House chief of staff Stephen Miller also on the line. He said the American automotive market relies in part on Canadian manufacturing, and that a stable trading relationship would serve workers in both countries.

He will join the APEC group photo with Putin

Carney also said Saturday in Manila that he will take part in the traditional "family photo" at next week's Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation summit in Shenzhen, China, even though Russian President Vladimir Putin will be in it. "Yes, I will participate in the photo out of respect for the host. We're in Asia," he said, pointing to Canada's sanctions policy, and to a recent federal move to keep Russian and Belarusian athletes and officials from entering Canada for next month's world junior hockey championship in Alberta, as the measure of Canada's position. U.S. President Donald Trump is also expected to attend. This would be Carney's first face-to-face encounter with Putin since becoming prime minister. CBC notes that China, unlike last year's APEC host South Korea, is not a member of the International Criminal Court, which has issued an arrest warrant for Putin.

Minimum wage still sits below a living wage everywhere reviewed

CBC News reviewed living-wage reports covering 59 cities and regions in every province and found that none had a provincial minimum wage equal to the calculated living wage — the hourly pay a full-time worker would need to cover basic needs, manage unexpected expenses and take part in community life.

Some of the widest gaps, between $12 and $14 an hour, were in Montreal, Halifax, the northern peninsula of Labrador, Banff, Alta., and Whitehorse. One of the narrowest was in Brandon, Man., where a $17.40 living wage sat $1 above the $16.40 provincial minimum. Methodologies are not identical across the reports, and CBC notes there was no current data for Nunavut or the Northwest Territories, so the figures should not be read as a ranked list of provinces. The review says living wages are climbing in most areas that published updates, and that a significant share of workers still earn less than the local living wage even when employed full time.

Trump, Xi and Putin could meet in Shenzhen next week, with no agreed agenda yet

Reuters, citing two people familiar with the planning, reported the talks on an agenda and format have not yet been settled.

A meeting among U.S. President Donald Trump, Chinese President Xi Jinping and Russian President Vladimir Putin is expected in Shenzhen during next week's APEC forum, Reuters reported Saturday. The dispatch says Putin is seeking terms to end the war in Ukraine, Trump is interested in nuclear arms-control talks, and Chinese academics and a former U.S. official described Beijing as wary of a three-way arms-control frame.

A spokesperson for China's embassy in Washington said Friday that China "is in communication with relevant parties regarding a meeting between the three heads of state" and had "nothing to share at the moment." Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskiy was quoted from last month saying, "We really don't want this to turn into 'Yalta 2, 3, 4,' with a redistribution of influence."

IEA says the oil market is returning to surplus

The International Energy Agency, in its November Oil Market Report published Nov. 13, said global oil supplies surpassed demand in October for the first time since the outbreak of war in Iran, and that its latest balances point to a surplus in the fourth quarter of 2026 and a larger build in 2027. Global supply rose by 2.3 million barrels a day in October to 105.4 million barrels a day as Gulf exports recovered faster than demand. Observed inventories rose by 52 million barrels, or 1.7 million barrels a day, the first increase since June. North Sea Dated crude was reported to have fallen about 32 per cent from a high of $136 a barrel in early October to around $93 at the time of writing, still about $22 above pre-war levels. The IEA cautioned that attacks on shipping remain a downside risk, and that tightness in diesel supply is still the main concern for the broader market.

At COP31, Guterres says even tripling adaptation finance would cover less than 30 per cent of need

Finance dominated Friday's discussions at the COP31 climate conference in Antalya, Türkiye, UN News reported. Secretary-General António Guterres, at what the story called his final COP press conference before leaving office at the end of the year, said climate disasters were erasing development gains and that "even tripling adaptation finance would meet less than 30 per cent of what is needed." UN climate chief Simon Stiell told a ministerial meeting that many developing countries are "trapped in a downward loop of debt, disaster, and devastating capital costs." An assessment highlighted at the conference suggested that, on current trends, annual climate finance could fall $840 billion short of a $1.3-trillion goal; developed countries are already expected to lead in mobilizing at least $300 billion a year for developing nations by 2035. Development finance institutions from Britain, Norway and Canada announced plans Friday to mobilize $10 billion for climate projects in emerging markets by 2030.

Qatar and Türkiye sign a mutual defence agreement

Qatar and Türkiye have signed a mutual defence agreement after Friday's meeting in Istanbul of the Türkiye-Qatar Supreme Strategic Committee, chaired by Turkish President Recep Tayyip Erdoğan and Qatar's Emir Sheikh Tamim bin Hamad Al Thani. A joint communique, as reported by Al Jazeera on Saturday, said the deal aims to strengthen collective defence and set a common position against external armed attacks on either country, and that the two sides agreed to consult on security threats and to expand joint exercises, defence-industry work and training. The communique as reported did not spell out what would trigger the agreement or what form a joint response would take. The two countries also called for "the swift and full resumption of safe, secure and unimpeded passage through the Strait of Hormuz." Other agreements at the same meeting covered education, consumer protection, and peace and conflict resolution.

Federal budget includes modest farm changes, including Temporary Foreign Worker tweaks

Ontario Farmer, in a Nov. 13 brief drawn from the federal budget documents, reported the agriculture measures below. A Wine Sector Support figure printed against a garbled year in that brief is not repeated here.

The measures include a tweak to the Temporary Foreign Worker Program “to better align with regional labour market needs, in collaboration with provinces and territories, while improving processing time and strengthening employer compliance.” The budget also proposes to help transition up to 200,000 temporary residents already in Canada to permanent residency by the end of 2027, and to include nieces and nephews and their children in farm inheritance tax breaks.

On spending, the brief lists $124 million over three years for the Local Food Infrastructure Fund, which supports food banks and community food infrastructure such as greenhouses and storage. It also proposes amending the Agricultural Loans Act to improve access to capital, support intergenerational farm transfers, and reduce costs and administrative requirements for lenders and producers.

Newfoundland farmers warn of another hay shortage

The federal budget measures are on the previous page. ALUS wetland work is on the Farming page. Thursday's cattle and grain close is below — not a new Friday or Saturday market.

Owners of 3C Farms in Comfort Cove-Newstead told CBC that demand for hay in Newfoundland and Labrador is again outrunning supply, after a disastrous shortage last year, and that a wetter-than-usual summer delayed the first cut and left less time for a good second cut. Stephen Cuff said last year's drought-driven shortage forced imports and emptied reserves, and that demand for their hay is about twice what they can supply. Jessica Cuff said applications for government funding have been declined and that they cannot take on extra customers.

Sara Rideout, a spokesperson for the Department of Forestry, Agriculture and Lands, said the government is taking feedback for a 10-year agriculture strategy and that, "while some producers have raised concerns about forage supplies, we are not aware of widespread hay production challenges this season." She said governments subsidized some feed purchase and transport costs last year.

Warm November weather helps Portage la Prairie farmers finish harvest

An unusually warm stretch of November weather is letting farmers around Portage la Prairie, Man., catch up after a rainy September delayed fieldwork, PortageOnline reported Saturday. Lorne Hulme of Hulme Agra Products, which farms about 5,700 acres of wheat, barley, oats, canola, soybeans, edible beans and corn, said October and November have allowed farmers to get most, if not all, of their crops off, often dry, and to do tillage now so less work is left for a possibly wet spring. He said his own corn harvest finished a few days before the interview, with a very good crop and fairly low moisture, which kept drying costs reasonable even though propane prices are higher. Hulme called being able to work after Halloween "a gift," and said working into mid-November has happened before but is unusual.

Ontario safer-supply opioid changes are paused after a legal challenge

The changes had been set to take effect Monday, Nov. 16. The regulator agreed to pause them to allow time to respond.

The College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario has paused controversial changes to “safer-supply” opioid prescribing. The regulator said Friday it was served with a legal challenge that included a motion for an injunction. The Oct. 13 package would have ended take-home doses, required physicians to assess patients in person at least once a month, and required that people on the drugs also be prescribed a long-acting opioid such as methadone or Suboxone. During the pause, CPSO said, physicians “should continue to practise in accordance with their professional obligations and exercise clinical judgment based on the individual circumstances and needs of their patients.”

Newly approved hepatitis B drug, from a Nov. 14 feature

In a Nov. 14 feature, CBC News reported that Health Canada in early November approved bepirovirsen, a short course of injections that can bring viral markers in the blood to undetectable levels in some people with chronic hepatitis B. That is an early-November approval, not a same-day one. An estimated 260,000 Canadians are living with the virus, roughly half of them undiagnosed. Drugmaker GSK expects to roll the treatment out in early 2027. Clinical trial data cited in the story showed that around one-fifth of patients still had the virus under control 24 weeks after stopping all other hepatitis B treatments. Specialists said the drug works only for a minority of patients, people with a history of cirrhosis do not qualify, Canadian pricing is not yet clear, and a course in Japan costs roughly $84,000 Cdn. Canada’s vaccine advisers also issued a new recommendation in November that all Canadian infants receive the hepatitis B vaccine.

Possible chickenpox exposure at Brantford General Hospital

Grand Erie Public Health is advising anyone who was in Brantford General Hospital’s emergency department waiting room between 10:23 and 10:36 a.m., or the Zone 7 waiting room from 10:36 a.m. to 12:26 p.m., on Friday, Nov. 6, 2026, that they may have been exposed to chickenpox (varicella). The official advisory was posted Nov. 10. It remains current for a Sunday paper because the watch window runs to Nov. 27.

GEPH says symptoms usually develop 14 to 16 days after exposure and is asking those who may have been exposed to monitor for symptoms until Nov. 27, 21 days after the visit. People at higher risk — infants under one year, pregnant people who are not immune, people with weakened immune systems, and anyone who has never had chickenpox or the vaccine — are urged to follow up with a primary care provider or a walk-in clinic. Anyone who develops fever or a rash should stay home, call ahead before seeking care, and avoid contact with people at higher risk.

SickKids and U of T study, published Nov. 12

A University of Toronto and Hospital for Sick Children study, published in Pediatrics and described in a Nov. 12 U of T release, found that children with acute lymphoblastic leukemia had lower antibody levels against measles and chickenpox during maintenance chemotherapy or within two years of finishing treatment than children of a similar age without leukemia, even if they had already had the recommended vaccines. The quality of those antibodies, and T-cell responses that help limit severe illness, were similar to those of healthy peers. The authors say the findings support revaccination. Co-senior author Tania Watts said the study does not answer when revaccination should happen, which is the subject of ongoing work. The release notes there are no standard Canadian guidelines on vaccination during and after leukemia treatment.

Laurier proposes a law school at its Brantford campus, aiming for fall 2028

The plan is not yet approved. Wilfrid Laurier University and the University of Guelph each hope to open a law school to improve access to justice in smaller communities.

Wilfrid Laurier University is proposing a Faculty of Law and a Juris Doctor program at its Brantford campus, CBC News reported Nov. 9. Poonam Puri, special adviser to the provost for that work, told CBC that south-central Ontario is one of the densest regions in the province without a law school, and that one goal is to encourage graduates to stay in Brantford and in smaller and medium-sized communities. The Brantford proposal would also work to improve access to justice in Indigenous communities. Laurier has been in contact with Six Nations of the Grand River and Mississaugas of the Credit First Nation, CBC reported. Chief Margaret Sault of Mississaugas of the Credit First Nation said, in a statement to CBC, that improving access must also involve a greater understanding of Indigenous rights, histories, laws and First Nations' relationship with the Canadian justice system.

CBC reported that Laurier would start with 60 students a year, with a capacity of 120, and that both universities hope to open by fall 2028 once all approvals are completed. The University of Guelph's opening, CBC noted, may be more realistic in 2029.

Blanche E. Williams Public School cuts the ribbon

Students, employees and community members gathered Thursday, Nov. 5, to cut the ribbon at the newly opened Blanche E. Williams Public School in Brantford, Grand Erie reported Nov. 6. The school is a community-hub partnership with the City of Brantford, the Brantford Public Library and BGC Brantford. Grand Erie says the 108,000-square-foot building is home to more than 600 students in Kindergarten to Grade 8, a 64-space child-care centre operated by BGC Brantford, and the Shellard Lane Library Branch. The Blanche E. Williams Community Centre has four gymnasiums and meeting spaces. A playground, splash pad, sports pad, cricket pitch, artificial turf field, skatepark and other park amenities are scheduled for completion in the coming months, the board said. The school community chose the Trailblazers as its name; Blanche E. Williams, a Brantford resident, was among the first Black women in Canada to attend university with the same privileges as white students, the board's account says.

Catholic board proposes a name for the new secondary school

The Brant Haldimand Norfolk Catholic District School Board says its trustees have selected St. Kateri Tekakwitha Catholic Secondary School as the recommended name for the new Catholic secondary school under construction at 353 Powerline Road in northeast Brantford. The proposed name still needs review by the Bishop of the Diocese of Hamilton and formal approval from the Ministry of Education. The board also appointed Mirona Dragicevic, currently principal of St. John's College, as principal of the new school. The school is scheduled to welcome its first students in February 2028, at the start of the second semester of the 2027–28 school year, initially in Grades 9 and 10, and to expand to Grades 9 through 12 in September 2028.

SpaceX on Saturday caught the upper stage of its Starship rocket with mechanical arms on the launch tower at Starbase, Texas, after the uncrewed spacecraft had flown around the Earth 14 times, CNBC reported. SpaceX did not catch the Super Heavy booster and instead diverted it to an offshore splashdown in the Gulf of Mexico, where CNBC said it exploded before hitting the water. During the flight, SpaceX released another 26 of its newest Starlink v3 satellites. CNBC said this was the first time the company had attempted to catch both the booster and the upper stage on the same test.

Voyager 1 will reach one light-day from Earth on Nov. 18

NASA says Voyager 1, launched in 1977 and now the most distant human-made object, will on Wednesday, Nov. 18, have travelled one light-day from Earth — more than 16 billion miles, or 25.9 billion kilometres — meaning any light from Earth would take 24 hours to reach the spacecraft. The agency updated a media advisory on Nov. 13 for public and media events around the milestone, including a "Shine Bright for Voyager's Light-Day" participation day on Tuesday, Nov. 17, and a Jet Propulsion Laboratory discussion at 12 p.m. EST on Thursday, Nov. 19. Microsoft says it has addressed a global Outlook and Teams outage

Microsoft said it was "deeply sorry" for a widespread outage of Microsoft 365 services, including Outlook and Teams, and that it had "addressed the underlying issue" and was restoring services gradually. The Guardian, in a Friday report first published Thursday, said the disruption began Thursday evening, lasted roughly 18 hours before services started to recover just before midday GMT on Friday, and was described by the company as a technical issue, not a cyber-attack or a problem caused by AI agents. Down Detector showed nearly 130,000 reports of problems in 74 countries. Microsoft has said more than 430 million people use Microsoft 365 apps.

OpenAI launches ChatGPT Wallet

OpenAI on Friday introduced ChatGPT Wallet, which it says lets AI agents pay without access to a user's actual card details and requires a security check, such as Face ID or a fingerprint, for every purchase. After the user reviews the items, total and card and approves the purchase, the payment network issues a token in place of the real card number. OpenAI says eligible card rewards and dispute protections are preserved. The wallet was built with American Express, Mastercard and Visa, and is starting through "dots" for ChatGPT Pro subscribers aged 18 and older in the United States with eligible U.S.-issued cards. OpenAI said it is beginning with limited availability in order to learn from real-world use.

ALUS is restoring about 113 acres of Ontario wetlands with more than $1.4 million in provincial support

This release is dated Nov. 10, a few days before the rest of this Farm Report. The cattle, hog and grain close, and the other Farm Report items, are in Business.

ALUS said Nov. 10 that, with more than $1.4 million from Ontario's Wetlands Conservation Partner Program, it is completing one of its largest coordinated wetland restorations in the province: about 113 acres at 57 sites in 13 municipalities in 2026. Eight ALUS communities, including ALUS Norfolk, are working with farmers and local partners. The work is focused on marginal or flood-prone farmland, existing wetlands and vegetative buffers, and is meant to improve water quality, reduce flood and drought impacts and support wildlife, including species at risk. Environment Minister Todd McCarthy and ALUS CEO Jordan Sinclair both described the projects as farmer- and partner-led.

READER VOICES

The question on the front page is still open

Sunday’s weekly feature is Reader Voices. This week the live reader question is the Contrans farmland poll, open through Thursday, Nov. 19. No letter or reader photograph had arrived when this page was prepared, and none is invented here.

The poll asks whether a Goliath, TFI/Contrans, should be backed by the new county council and mayor in rezoning valuable farmland. It is on page 1, and it can be answered at thedailyward.com/poll/contrans. Results are due Thursday.

When letters and reader photos arrive, they will run on this desk, labelled as such, edited only for length and libel, and signed with the writer’s name and community. Email editor@thedailyward.com with your name and community. Photos need a credit and a sentence about when and where they were taken. Corrections also go to that address.

HOW TO BE HEARD

This page is for letters, corrections and reader photographs once they arrive.

We will not invent a letter to fill the space. Until then, the live question is the Contrans poll on page 1, open through Thursday, Nov. 19, at thedailyward.com/poll/contrans. Write to editor@thedailyward.com with your name and community.

The Business Guide, and how to reach us

The complete directory is on the following pages, and online. Calendar, submissions, corrections and Sources stay with this desk.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY • ONLINE NOW

Our Community Directory is online

The Daily Ward keeps a business directory of 337 local businesses across all five wards of the County of Brant, drawn from the paper's master list. The complete list is printed on the following pages, and the live directory is at thedailyward.com/directory. It is organised by ward, so you can find what is close to home.

Visit the Directory → thedailyward.com/directory

Add my business → editor@thedailyward.com

WHY JOIN THE DIRECTORY

- Neighbours find you. Readers in all five wards look up local businesses at thedailyward.com/directory.
- Listed in your ward. Your business sits with the others in your part of the County.
- One tap to reach you. Your phone number and your website, right in the listing.
- Kept current. Moved or changed your number? Tell us and we will update it.

HOW TO JOIN

1. Email editor@thedailyward.com.
2. Use the subject "Add my business".
3. Send your business name, ward or community, category, address, phone and website.
4. We check it and add it online.

Community Directory • thedailyward.com/directory. Search local businesses, farms, trades, churches, clubs and services in every ward. The full printed list, all 337 names from the master file, starts on the next page. Basic listings stay free and are not for sale as news coverage.

Calendar, corrections and contact. See the Week Ahead on pages 6–7, and earlier issues at thedailyward.com. News tips, event notices and letters go to editor@thedailyward.com, with your name and community. Photographs need a credit and a sentence about when and where they were taken. We will correct a fact on the record. The live Contrans poll is on page 1 and at thedailyward.com/poll/contrans, open through Thursday, Nov. 19. Sources are always the last pages of this issue.

A closing note

Each issue ends with an invitation, not a production note. This Sunday edition is no different.

THE DAILY WARD

We’d love to see your content. Your stories. We wanna hear from you.

Send a letter, a news tip, a photo, a volunteer we should sit down with, or a calendar item we can check. Write to editor@thedailyward.com, and include your name and community. Photographs need a credit and a sentence about when and where they were taken. Put thedailyward.com on anything you print or post about the paper.

The Contrans farmland-rezoning poll is still open through Thursday, Nov. 19, at thedailyward.com/poll/contrans, and on page 1. If you see a fact we should correct, write to the same address. We will correct it on the record.

thedailyward.com is the home of this paper, and of the Business Guide at thedailyward.com/directory, and the Contrans poll.

Where our stories come from Every item in this issue is from a named source. This list continues on the next page.

County of Brant, inaugural meeting notice, Nov. 13, 2026, and Holiday Parades and Events graphics with the "Discover the holidays in Brant!" post and free Holiday Skates, brant.ca/Holidays. Graphics credited "Graphic: County of Brant." The cover photograph is from Jingle Bell Night 2025.

CBC News, Aura Carreño Rosas, new mayors in Haldimand, Norfolk, Brant and Brantford, Nov. 14, 2026, used on the front page and in Council.

Clayton Barker, "BURFORD – Years Ago," Flashback 117, compiled for the Nov. 15, 2026 issue, emailed Nov. 14, 2026, 5:47 p.m. ET, reprinted verbatim with his caption, reference and disclaimer. The 1919 Bank of Toronto advertisement photograph is his filing, credited in place. The routing line on the manuscript was treated as a production note, not reader-facing text.

John Springer, "SC v. Murdaugh: Judge asked to dismiss original indictment," johnspringer.com, Nov. 14, 2026, 6:41 a.m. ET; and "Authorities Shed New Light on JonBenét Ramsey Case," johnspringer.com, Nov. 14, 2026, 5:44 p.m. ET. Both reprinted with permission, verbatim, including his published wording. Credit: "By John Springer, reprinted with permission from johnspringer.com."

Brantford Police Service, Nov. 12 robbery advisory, Allenby Avenue near Superior, file 26-46000; and Nov. 5 release on charges against a 28-year-old Paris man. Accused's name is omitted here; teenage girls are not named. Paris Star Online, Elgin Street townhouse fire, Nov. 12. County OPP items that did not name a community were not assigned to Ward 4.

City of Brantford, Downtown Revitalization weekly update, Nov. 16–20, and 99 days to the 2027 Ontario Parasport Games, brantford.ca/news/. Environment Canada, Brantford forecast issued 3:30 p.m. EST Saturday, Nov. 14, 2026. christmasinparis.ca, Sunday hours; 2026 flyer used as the Christmas market advertisement. Elections Canada and CBC News, Brantford–Brant South by-election dates.

Ontario, Canada and World desks were compiled from a Nov. 14 evening contribution, from pages fetched the same evening: Alina Snisarenko, CBC News, Ontario advertising spending, Nov. 14, 2026, 5 a.m. EST. Desmond Brown, CBC News, Pelee Island tower, Nov. 14, 2026, 1:02 p.m. EST. CBC News, Pickering construction-site collision, Nov. 14, 2026, 3:34 p.m. EST. The Canadian Press via CBC News, Carney on a U.S. auto-sector deal, Nov. 14, 2026, 7:35 a.m. EST. Mayson Maharaj, CBC News, Carney on the APEC photo, Nov. 14, 2026, 1:18 p.m. EST. Natalie Stechyson, CBC News, living wage and minimum wage, Nov. 14, 2026, 4 a.m. EST. Trevor Hunnicutt, Mei Mei Chu and Andrew Osborn, Reuters, possible Trump-Xi-Putin meeting, Nov. 14, 2026. International Energy Agency, Oil Market Report — November 2026, published Nov. 13, 2026. Laura Quinones, UN News, COP31 in Antalya, Nov. 13, 2026. Al Jazeera, Qatar-Türkiye defence agreement, Nov. 14, 2026.

Grand Erie Public Health chickenpox advisory, listed Nov. 10, 2026; watch window to Nov. 27. Lauren Pelley, CBC News, hepatitis B feature, Nov. 14, 2026, 4 a.m. EST, about an early-November Health Canada approval. Betty Zou, University of Toronto Temerty Faculty of Medicine, leukemia revaccination study, Nov. 12, 2026. Lora Kolodny, CNBC, Starship upper-stage catch, Nov. 14, 2026, 4:14 p.m. EST. NASA Headquarters advisory on Voyager 1, originally Nov. 10, updated Nov. 13, 2026. Mark Sweney and others, The Guardian, Microsoft 365 outage, Friday, Nov. 13, 2026 (first published Thursday, Nov. 12). OpenAI, "Introducing ChatGPT Wallet," Nov. 13, 2026.

Ontario Farmer, Postmedia News, federal budget farm measures, Nov. 13, 2026; a Wine Sector Support figure printed against a garbled year in that brief is omitted. Sanuda Ranawake, CBC News, Newfoundland hay shortage, Nov. 14, 2026, 4:30 a.m. EST. Michael Blume, PortageOnline, Portage la Prairie harvest weather, Nov. 14, 2026, 4 a.m. ALUS, Ontario wetland restoration, dated Toronto, Nov. 10, 2026. Thursday, Nov. 12 Ag Row cattle, hog and grain figures as checked for Saturday's paper.

Sports report, compiled Nov. 14, 2026, from a Saturday afternoon file and Saturday evening finals: ESPN college-football scoreboard; Yahoo Sports; USC Athletics; Associated Press; NHL.com, Oilers 1, Maple Leafs 0; Oshawa Generals, Bulldogs 9, Generals 3; Brantford Bulldogs and OHL Friday recap; ESPN NFL Week 10 schedule; the Brantford Expositor (BCI, PJC, North Park, OFSAA), Grand Erie DSB, Paris Star, Brantford Minor Hockey Association and Brant County Riverhawks. Unconfirmed at press time: the PJC–Waterford final, the Riverhawks at Tilbury, Texas at LSU, Baylor at BYU, South Carolina at Arkansas, Texas Tech at Oklahoma State and Utah at Arizona. No Expositor photograph was pulled.

brantfordsymphony.ca/events, Flute & Guitar Salon, Nov. 21.

Education, page 20: Lauren Kuivenhoven, CBC News, Nov. 9, 2026, Laurier and Guelph law-school proposals. Grand Erie DSB, Nov. 6, 2026, Blanche E. Williams Public School ribbon cutting. BHNCDSB, Oct. 30, 2026, proposed name and principal for the new Brantford Catholic secondary school. Kindergarten registration, still current, granderie.ca/kindergarten, opened Oct. 19, 2026. Inclement weather procedure, granderie.ca/family-resources/inclement-weather, and transportation alerts at transinfobhn.ca/alerts. Grand Erie DSB, Nov. 6, 2026, inaugural Hall of Distinction.

Business Directory, pages 28–33: The Daily Ward master list, 337 unique business names in `directory-337-full-listing.csv`, carried forward from earlier issues and printed here in full, grouped by ward (Ward 4 first) and category. The live directory is at thedailyward.com/directory; that page currently describes 335 businesses, two fewer than this master file. Listings were not individually rechecked for this Sunday issue. Email editor@thedailyward.com to add or correct a listing.

Careers background links, page 18: official pages for Skilled Trades Ontario, Ontario financial supports for apprentices, Canada apprenticeship grants, Employment Ontario, County of Brant and City of Brantford job boards, the Job Bank, and Better Jobs Ontario, each checked Nov. 15, 2026. A longer research file from earlier issues is stored in this issue's background folder. A Canada-Ontario Job Grant URL at ontario.ca did not resolve when checked, and is not linked.

Contrans callout, page 1: the highlighted box links to the complete Thursday column "Wait your turn, Contrans," by Glenn Hughes, first published in Issue 28, Nov. 12, 2026, on the front page and pages 18–19. The full text, unaltered, is at background/Wait-your-turn-Contrans-FULL.html in this issue. The original issue is at thedailyward.com/issue28. The pull quote, "We do not need any more truck traffic where we live," is from the opening of that column. The reader poll remains at thedailyward.com/poll/contrans, open through Thursday, Nov. 19. County of Brant aerial and Schedule "A" images used on the full-column page are from Issue 28, file ZBA17-OPA3-26-RC, with the credits published there.

Photo and graphic credits: The Daily Ward coin, both sides of every masthead. County of Brant holiday graphics, as labelled. Advertisements remain the advertisers' art, with thedailyward.com, including the MESH Aesthetics and Medical Wellness landscape advertisement on page 13. No Expositor, Postmedia or BrantBeacon photograph was pulled from Saturday's paper for this issue.

Christmas event boxes on pages 11, 18 and 25: City of Brantford, Parade After Party (Nov. 28 parade at 6 p.m.), brantford.ca; Freedom House, 50th annual parade, "50 Years of Kindness," freedomhouse.ca/santaclausparade.
