The Carrol factor

By The Daily Ward Staff

KEVIN DAVIS
Conservative

DAVE CARROL
Independent

Kevin Davis was appointed the Conservative candidate without a nomination contest, pushing Dave Carrol, backed by former MP Phil McColeman, to run as an Independent. The Hill Times noted that even a thousand votes for Carrol could hurt in a close race. Election day is Monday, Dec. 7. Candidates' answers are inside.

FEDERAL BY-ELECTION • BRANT VOTES

A Facebook and Instagram reaction vote favoured Carrol over Davis

John Monkhouse of Brant Votes posted Wednesday, Nov. 18, at 11:25 a.m., the final tally of a week-long Facebook and Instagram reaction vote he had put to readers: a thumbs-up for Kevin Davis, a heart for Dave Carrol. The totals he published were Dave Carrol, 431; Kevin Davis, 238; total, 669. Carrol led by 193.

Monkhouse was careful about the count. Facebook, he wrote, only reports anonymous totals for reactions, “so someone who both reacted and commented may be counted twice in these numbers.” The comment votes, he said, were exact — 30 for Davis and 61 for Carrol — and the reactions were 208 thumbs-up and 370 hearts. “This was a Facebook and Instagram reaction vote, not a scientific poll,” he wrote, “but 669 of you weighed in, and the result is clear.

The by-election itself is December 7.”

FARM YARD LIGHTS OUT FOR DURATION:

Lights in farmyards have been ruled "out" for the duration by the Dominion Power Controller; it was learned today.

Although official notification of the new ruling has not been received at the Rural Hydro office here, offices in other cities in this district have been notified and it is expected that the notice will be received here in a day or so.

Some farmers have been in the habit of leaving outside lights burning all night but now the restrictions provide that the lights may only be turned on when needed....

HINTS ON LETTERS TO WAR PRISONERS:

National defence Headquarters complaining that every day the men who censor mail sent from Canada to Prisoners of war in enemy-occupied countries have to strike out information contained in letters, have issued some general hints on letter writing to prisoners.

“Valuable time is wasted and the appearance of the letters is by no means improved when censoring is necessary.” The Department said, suggesting that Canadians obtain a copy of “Regulations Concerning Communications With Prisoners of War Interned Abroad “from E.F. Collins, Next-of Kin Prisoner of War Branch, Defence headquarters, before writing.

LAST CALL FOR OVERSEAS MAIL:

Parcels Must Be in by Tomorrow to be Sure of Christmas Delivery – Christmas is still more than six weeks away, but tomorrow will be the signal for “last call “for overseas Christmas mails. The Post Office Department gave ample advance warning that November 10 would be the deadline date, and after tomorrow there can be no assurance of parcels reaching overseas destinations in time for delivery before Christmas...for those who are still mailing overseas parcels, at this final date, here is a Post Office reminder: Don’t use any fancy-coloured papers in overseas parcels. Any seagoing parcel stands a good chance of getting slightly damp. Coloured papers will “bleed “and the dye will make a mess of the contents. Plain white paper is preferred.

Contrans expansion goes to council Dec. 8

BY THE DAILY WARD STAFF

The County of Brant will consider a proposed official plan and zoning change at 291 and 297 Bishopsgate Road on Tuesday, Dec. 8, at 6 p.m.

The meeting is in Council Chambers at 7 Broadway St W, Paris, or online at brant.ca/live. The file is ZBA17-OPA3-26-RC. Residents can email written comments to planning@brant.ca one week before the meeting, by Tuesday, Dec. 1, quoting that file number. Voting in The Daily Ward's reader poll does not submit a comment to the County. Anyone may attend. The notice recommends registering with clerks@brant.ca to speak.

The application would expand the existing transport truck terminal and bring the subject lands into Burford's urban settlement area, rezoning them from Agricultural to Employment.

A new mayor, and a full table of change at City Hall

BY THE DAILY WARD STAFF

Tuesday night's inaugural put Richard Carpenter in the mayor's chair and seven first-time councillors around the table. He talked about town halls, housing first and more officers on the street — and about doing the job with "honest, compassionate, respectful leadership."

Among the priorities he listed were a more open engagement with residents, including regular town-hall meetings; a review of the mandates of city committees, which the Expositor reported was to ensure they reflect the city's rich diversity; a "housing first" approach to homelessness, addiction and mental health; and increased on-street policing. "The other major issue we all heard at the doors is 'affordability,'" he said. He closed: "Let's work together for a better Brantford and let's start today."

The Expositor estimated about 200 people attended. Don’t confirm your ID if a caller claims they found it

BY THE DAILY WARD STAFF

A CTV report says people are getting calls that look like they come from Brantford Police, asking them to confirm a name and come down to a station. The official police news page had not posted a matching release when this page was prepared.

Shelby Knox of CTV News Kitchener reported Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 18, that Brantford Police have received reports of suspicious calls. The caller says an identity document has been found, then asks the person to confirm their name and go to a police station. CTV quoted a police warning that the intent is unknown, with concern the caller may be trying to obtain personal information under false pretences. BRANTFORD POLICE CRIME WATCH

What police have released, and a quiet night in the County

This page carries two standing sections: Brantford Police Crime Watch, drawn only from official Brantford Police Service statements and releases, and the Brant County OPP report, which runs every issue even when it is quiet. The community list still starts with Ward 4.

Brantford Police Service's news and media-releases page, checked Wednesday evening, Nov. 18, showed no release dated Wednesday, Nov. 18. The most recent official item remained the Tuesday, Nov. 17, witness appeal in a Monday, Nov. 16, collision at Colborne Street and Patterson Avenue, which was reported in Issue 34. That appeal is not reprinted here. No update on charges or on the pedestrian's condition was posted when this page was prepared.

Loud exhausts would start at $200, if Queen's Park gets its way

BY THE DAILY WARD STAFF

Ontario says it will introduce a bill to lift the minimum Highway Traffic Act fine for excessive vehicle noise from $60 to $200. It is a statement of intent, not yet the law.

The government announced the plan Wednesday, Nov. 18, in Mississauga. The maximum fine would stay $1,000. Transportation Minister Prabmeet Sarkaria and Solicitor General Michael Kerzner were named on the release. The announcement does not mention Brantford or the County of Brant.

In Montreal on Tuesday, Premier Doug Ford said the two provinces should tear down trade barriers and work together on steel, aluminum, energy and defence, with U.S. tariffs in the background. Erika Morris of The Canadian Press, writing for CBC News, reported that Ford pointed to the two provinces together accounting for about 61 percent of Canada's population and 58 percent of its economy, and spoke of a "sovereign energy system." Interprovincial wine trade was also mentioned.

Twenty minutes with Trump, after a longer sit-down with Xi

BY THE DAILY WARD STAFF

Prime Minister Mark Carney’s short meeting with U.S. President Donald Trump at APEC in Shenzhen came a day after talks in China, and after Ottawa announced further tariff relief on Canadian exports.

CBC News reported the two leaders met for about 20 minutes on Wednesday, Nov. 18. Carney said that, in President Trump’s “hierarchy of issues,” Canada’s trade with China is “not the top issue at all.” On Canada–U.S. trade talks, he described progress as “two steps forward, one step back.” On Tuesday he had met China’s President Xi Jinping. CBC reported about $400 million in Chinese tariff relief, and that Canada is extending some steel and aluminum exemptions for two years.

Hours later, still in China, Carney spoke virtually to the DealBook summit. There had been progress with Washington, he said, but "we're not there yet." Canada wants the Section 232 tariffs on autos, steel, aluminum and lumber lifted, and the 50 per cent tariffs as well. The U.S. midterms, he said, change nothing.

"We'd like to do a deal. If the U.S. doesn't want to do a deal, we're busy."

U.S. Trade Representative Jamieson Greer was Washington's lead negotiator when those talks collapsed on Aug. 21, after a tentative deal three days earlier, on Aug. 18. The two sides started talking again on Nov. 1, in weekly calls.

Alaska’s Senate race ends without a ranked-choice count

BY THE DAILY WARD STAFF

Democrat Mary Peltola crossed 50 per cent in Alaska, so the seat was called without a ranked-choice tabulation, The Associated Press reported Tuesday night.

Peltola defeated two-term Republican Sen. Dan Sullivan. The report said the result leaves Democrats with a 56–44 Senate majority, and that nine seats flipped — the most since 1958. Peltola, who is Yup’ik, denied involvement in allegations that members of her campaign helped recruit a candidate who shares the incumbent’s name. A U.S. Department of Justice lawsuit seeking to block certification of the race was dismissed; an appeal was reported.

Last day to vote in the Contrans poll

The Daily Ward's reader poll on a bid to rezone farmland at 291 Bishopsgate Road, next to the Contrans terminal, is open through Thursday, Nov. 19. Results Friday, once the poll has closed.

Glenn Hughes's column Wait your turn, Contrans first ran on the front of Issue 28, Thursday, Nov. 12. It argues against a bid to push Burford's settlement boundary and rezone farmland at 291 Bishopsgate Road. The column is not reprinted in this issue. It remains at thedailyward.com/issue32/background/wait-your-turn-contrans-full.

Jennifer Kyle, who campaigned on protecting prime farmland, was sworn in as County of Brant mayor on Monday, Nov. 16. The poll asks whether the new county council and mayor should back the rezoning.

The poll is on the front page. You can also vote at thedailyward.com/poll/contrans.

The poll is open through Thursday, Nov. 19. Final results Friday, once the poll has closed.

County council will consider the proposed expansion at 291 and 297 Bishopsgate Road on Tuesday, Dec. 8, at 6 p.m., in Council Chambers at 7 Broadway St W, Paris, or online at brant.ca/live. Written comments are due to planning@brant.ca by Tuesday, Dec. 1, quoting file ZBA17-OPA3-26-RC. A vote in The Daily Ward's poll does not submit a comment to the County.

Dates ahead, checked for Thursday's paper

Only notices that could be confirmed, and that have not simply been copied forward from Issue 34, are listed. If a time or fact could not be confirmed, it is omitted.

Thursday, Nov. 19 — Scotland outdoor-recreation open house. 6:30 p.m. to 8 p.m., Scotland Community Centre, 85 Simcoe Street. A brief presentation is set for 6:45 p.m. After the open house, a survey is to remain open until Dec. 18. Source: County of Brant, posted Nov. 11, 2026: brant.ca.

What is not in this draft

Not in this draft, and not invented: any local amateur results from Wednesday night beyond Paris U18-2 and the Bulldogs, none of which were confirmed at this writing; a Nov. 18 nightly Brant and Brantford news report (none in the inbox as of Wednesday evening); paid display bookings were not independently confirmed for Thursday, so the paper is running roster advertisements carried from earlier issues (Harris Jewellers, Mesh Wellness, Pixture Cars Canada, The Paris Dog Parlour, and Peter Ligori of RE/MAX Twin City), plus the paper's own house notices; a usable official photograph of Mayor Carpenter's swearing-in; and any late police or council release posted after this draft was prepared. Wednesday's Markets, Ag Row and Producer of the Week (Moore Farms) package, dated Nov. 18, is in this issue. Clayton Barker's "BURFORD – Years Ago" column arrived at 6:05 p.m. Wednesday and is printed verbatim in this issue, with his 7:15 p.m. caption for the 1945 Burford Advance clipping.

The parade-volunteer brief and "This weekend" listings were written from Glenn Hughes's Thursday, Nov. 19, 5:06 a.m. ET note and checked that morning against the City of Brantford notice and volunteer form, sandersoncentre.ca, brantfordmusicclub.ca, and the Bell Homestead special-events page. All four loaded. Ticket availability for the Toronto Jazz Orchestra concert is not claimed.

Stories without a new photograph

These stories run without a new photograph, because no rights-cleared image was in hand: the Elections Canada list; the Brant Votes reaction vote; the Scotland open house; Hello, Brant! in St. George; Brantford Police Crime Watch; the Brant County OPP report; the Ontario loud-vehicle fine; Ford in Montreal; Carney and Trump at APEC; Mary Peltola; and the National Hockey League finals table.

A Cathcart rural-road photograph was considered for the Contrans poll and was not used, because it is not the site and was a weak fit. The County's Contrans aerial map was not used (municipal copyright).
